8/23/12

On 8/23/12, at approximately 11:03 P.M., uniform officers observed a 2012 Chevrolet Malibu make a right turn onto 65th Street without using the turn signal. The officers signaled for the operator to stop with the emergency lights of the patrol car. During the course of the vehicle investigation, the officers ordered the operator to exit the vehicle. One of the officers began to frisk the operator, at which time the operator squeezed his legs together. The officer and the offender began to struggle. The offender got back in the driver's seat and pulled the officer into the vehicle with him. The offender shifted the gear selector into drive and the vehicle began to move. The officer's upper body was in the vehicle and his legs were outside the vehicle. The officer drew his 9mm pistol and discharged it at the offender. The vehicle's front bumper contacted the front bumper of a parked unattended vehicle and stopped. The offender was subsequently transported to the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania by police, where he was pronounced. The offender was found to be in possession of a bag containing cocaine which was inside his pants. No weapon was recovered.
